NUMBER 33. AUGUST 18, 1905, NORWAY AND SOUTH PARIS, MAINE. VOLUME XXXVI

Base Ball Tournament.

There will be base ball galore at the Fair Grounds Saturday, Aug. 19, and the fans are looking forward to a regular feast of base hits, strike outs and errors. The much talked of Tournament is to be an accomplished fact, and four of the strongest teams in the County are to participate.

One game will be played in the forenoon, and two in the afternoon the second game of the afternoon being between the winner of the morning and the winner of the first of the afternoon games, and each game is bound to be a fast and exciting contest.

The four teams competing are Norway, Oxford, Bryant's Pond and Hebron. Bryant's Pond comes down confident of winning, having a record of only 3 games lost this season, while their grand showing against the strong Portland team last Saturday, spurs them on to make extra efforts to win.

Hebron has a remarkably fast fielding and heavy hitting aggregation this season, their record being nearly as good as Bryant's Pond. They have been strengthened by 4 or 5 outside players and it would not suprise a goodly numbers of the fans to see them win out.

Oxford can always be depended upon to make it exciting, as a snapping, scrapping team never played the game here. They always work for everything in sight, kick if they don't get it, or if they do, and keep enthusism roused to a high pitch. Their followers ask no odds when the team is in shape and as they are now in the pink of condition, can't see how Oxford can loose. Norway has now one of the best teams that ever represented her on the ball field, every man being a worker that won't quit no matter how heavy the odds are against him and the boys have a further incentive, in the fact that whatever money the team wins, will be divided equally among the men. Those who pretend to know, and they are legion, can't see anything but Norway as a winner.

The purse is $110.00 divided as follows: $50, first, $30, second, $15 each to third and fourth.

The band is going to try and be in attendance, and to give the tournament a regular World's Championship flavor, are rehearsing "Tessie" which will be played at every opportunity. Let all the ball enthusiasts turn out and encourage the management whose efforts have made the game possible. Rooters should bring megaphones in order to be heard, but should keep back of the wire so as not to interfere with the players of any team. Keep off the field and leave plenty of room for those that have business there. be sportsman enough to do that and you will enjoy the game just as well and see the best team win out, with no excuses for the loser.

Our want column has found purchasers for coon kittens and owners for gold watches and five dollar bills. See pages 2 and 8 of this paper.

Mrs. Lydia A. Titcomb attended the centennial at Harrison, and spent the remainder of the week visiting relatives at Harrison and Bridgton.

Maud Lunt has returned from her visit in Farmington and is entertaining as guests, Beede Averill and Gertrude French of Farmington.

Judge Charles F. Whitman, clerk of courts, and Mrs. Whitman have gone to Lynn, Mass., where they will visit their son, Victor M. Whitman.

Winfield S. Kimball, who is working at the State school, Lancaster, Mass., has been spending a week at his former home here and at South Waterford. He returns to-day.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Cotton returned from their vacation at Wolfboro, N. H., last Tuesday. Services at the Baptist church will be resumed next Sunday at the usual hour.

"Montana Harry" the white Indian Doctor, has closed his wigwam on Beal street. He went to South Paris thence to Lewiston and is now administering to the suffering at Berlin, N. H.

Letters received here announce the birth to Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Wilson in Hartford, Conn., Aug. 8th, of a daughter, who is named Dorothy. Both mother and child are nicely. Mrs. Wilson was formerly Anne Mae Cole of Norway.

Prof. Frederick W. Bancroft of Boston, who is stopping at Rock Island, made us a call the other day. He is a friend of C. A. G. Jackson of Montpelier, who at one time worked in our office and fitted himself to be a Vermont democratic editor.

Rev. Mr. Brooks was called to the Empire Campground on Tuesday of this week to a meeting of the directors of the Camp-meeting Association. Several families have already gone to Poland to attend the camp-meeting that commences next Thursday, Aug. 24th.

The water is getting low in the lake and outlet.

Wm. Oneill and party of eight of Malden, Mass., are at Pine Lodge for a stay.

Mrs. B. F. Bradbury went to Augusta to spend the week with Major Bradbury.

Bessie Fenn of Poland Spring has been the guest of Bernice Munce at the Oaks.

Josephine Bowker of Brunswick has been the guest of Annie and Alfred T. Leferrier.

Etta Nevers returned Saturday from a visit of a month to her brother, Dr. Harry Nevers, in Bingham.

The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. C. N. Tubbs next Thursday evening, Aug. 24, at 7.30 o'clock.

Emma McCrellis has been spending a few days' vacation from her duties in Portland, at home. She came Friday and returned Wednesday afternoon.

On Tuesday evening at Norway Opera House, a social dance was given by and for the benefit of the Guild of church workers, and was an invitation affair. Owing to the rain a number of those who had bought the tickets did not attend, but there was a goodly number on the floor, and they had a very fine time. Under the arrangement for the sale of tickets, naturally a more congenial party assembled, and it is reported one of the assembled, and it is reported one of the seapleasantest social gatherings of the season. The order comprised 14 numbers, and Stearns' orchestra of four pieces furnished music.

Homeless Man In Norwry.

"C. A. How, N. Y., H. 026," was the name and address on the register at the Beals Hotel, Tuesday, and it is believed that it was the first time it has ever been seen in this section. The "HO" of the address was written with a two and 6 above and below, respectively, the bar of the "H", with the "O" encircling the entire combination.

This sign is found very often in the middle and western states, and is the trademark of the Homeless 26. Last Thanksgiving day 26 lonesome traveling men were at the Colonial Hotel in Pittsburg, Pa. They had dinner together and formed a society to which they gave the above unique name. They said that 26 cents should be the enterance fee, and quarterly dues, goodfellowship with temperance, and with economy and promotion of the drummers comfort should be the aim.

The clerk of the hotel consented to act as secretary, but soon his duties were so enlarged as to make necessary the establishment of a salaried office, and now S. N. Williams is secretary of the association with more than 5000 members traveling men and hotel men at whose house no liquor is sold. In fact, every applicant for membership must be recommended by a member in good standing and should the joiner prove unworthy the sponsor is henceforth without the pale.

Every "Homeless 26" man feels in duty bound to aid his brother. If that frater is sick a physician must be called and the association pays the bill. If he is without a position, 5000 of the family are looking for a job for him; and at his death $2500 are given to his relatives. One member has died since the association was formed, his death occuring in an explosion of an oil tank which wrecked a train near Pittsburg, a few months ago. Then an assessment of 26 cents brought $1300.

Another direction which the society has turned is the erection of a hotel, and they are carefully considering the erection of a $50,000 building where the man without a place to call home can go and be cared for until work is found. One of the social features is that whenever any of the members are together they have a little dinner. The further development of this young but virile association will no doubt bring fourth a social and insuring elemeht of considerable power.

Dog Overcome by Heat.

Don, the St. Bernard dog owned by Dr. B. F. Bradbury, was overcome by the heat last Friday afternoon and but for heroic administrations of smelling salts and other remedies would now be in the happy hunting ground. The animal spent the best part of the day seeking shady nooks, but about 3 p. m. ventured on to the sidewalk.

The sun was pouring its rays alike on the just and the unjust and humans suffered equal to animals. While exchanging greetings and offering sympathy with other dogs aver the humid weather, Don toppled over and lay as if dead. He had all the symptoms of being sunstruck. A blanket covered with chopped ice was brought out, the dog loaded on to it and two men carried him to the basement of the stable.

Ernest C. Murch of the ADVERTISER office is having a week off and has visited Augusta, Waterville and other cities.

The annual reunion of Crockett Ridge school will take place, Thursday, Aug. 24th, at the schoolhouse.

Dr. DeWitt Parmenter, eye specialist, has moved to his new and larger office next door to Hobbs' Variety Store.

Some 25 to 30 of the members of Pennesseewassee Lodge K. of P. are attending the reception to Supreme Chancelor E. E. Shiveley at Auburn, today.

H. R. Benn's moving pictures were shown in the Opera House last Wednesday evening and were very pleasing to the audience. It was pronounced the best of tne kind ever shown in the house. He will give another show to-night at the same place.

H. B. Young, Superintendent of the N. & P. Street Railway Co., received a letter from the Novelty Turning Company of Fitchburg, Mass., dated Aug. 3d saying that they had closed down their machines there that day and they expected to be in Norway in about two weeks. The mill at the Falls is ready for them and they are expected to arrive here at any time.

The Nathan Millett farm in Millettville was sold this week to Alpheus G. Lovejoy of Mason, for about $3009. The writings were done Monday and Mr. Lovejoy will take possession Oct. 1st. The farm has been carried on by A. N. Tyler for the past three years. Mr. Tyler has hired out or leased the Oliver Curtis farm in Paris where he will move about Oct. 1st.

This is a great month for eclipses. If you missed the eclipse of the moon, Monday night, don't fail to get up early Wednesday, August 30, and take in the partial eclipse of the sun. The sun will enter the shadow here at about 5.45 o'clock in the morning and it will not be entirely clear until 7.53. About two-thirds of the sun's face will be hidden in the shadow here at the height of the eclipse.

Mrs. O. W. Brown has been confined to her bed for several days, recovering from injures received by leaping from a carriage while the horse was running away. The accident happened on Aug. 3 when Mrs Brown and her husband were on their way to attend the centennial celebration at Harrison. Just after crossing the Twin Bridges Mr. Brown left the carriage to walk up the steep hill, while Mrs. Brown handled the reins. At the top of the hill the horse became frightened and started on a run, and had gone nearly a mile before Mrs. Brown gained control of him. Greatly excited she leaped from the carriage and caught the horse by the head, holding him until Mr. Brown reached her. The effects of the jump were not felt until the following day, and physicians attending her think she is injured internally. She will go to her home in New York next week.

Eleven Inning Contest.

The disbanding of the Boston Bankers club of Bridgton which was to have played here Saturday last made it necessary for the baseball management to find some other team to go against Oxford. As no outside team could be obtained at such a short notice, a team was picked up composed of Norway and Prr-is players, who had never played together as a team. A victory for Oxford seemed assured, which fact kept down the attendance, a smaller number than usual being on hand, but those enjoyed one of the closest and most interesting games ever played on the Fair Grounds.

The game went eleven innings and from the form shown by the new Radcliffe team, it is very evident that a very strong nine could be developed with practice, for although handicapped, the boys kept plugging away with a spirit seldom seen in one of our own teams, and though apparently outclassed, never let up for a moment, and with never a sign of quitting made Oxford play its best ball and go the limit to win out.

The game itself was marked by many brilliant pieces of work sandwiched in with some loose playing by both teams. Whitman pitched for Norway and with practice so as to control his ball would make a winner. His work was excellent as 15 strikeouts will testify, and Oxford could gather only 6 hits off him in 10 innings, putting in their other 4 in the 11th, but his control was not what it should be as 8 bases on balls and 7 wild pitches bear testimony. This can be remedied however and then Norway would have as good a pitcher as any team that comes here.

Keene for a light man played well behind the bat. Bonney, Lowell, Fifield and Cole did good work both at bat and in the field, the latter taking a difficult ground ball from Shaw's bat in the 7th inning, touching 2d, forcing DeWolf and cutting the ball to Bonney ahead of Shaw completing a fine double play.

Hayes, French and Pike batted well, French putting in two baggers. Hayes allowed DeWolf's hit in the 11th to get away from him and then loafed on it allowing 3 winners to score.

For Oxford, Adams had an off day, turning in 4 errors something unusual for him. Stone pitched good ball all the time, also batting well. DeWolf made a fine catch of a foul fly in the fifth taking the ball close to the wire after a hard run. Shaw batted and fielded well as he always does and ran bases in fine style.

Taken all together it was as interesting a game as has been played this year, and we have the promise of some more good games from now out. Let every one support the boys in good shape for their playing deserves it. The score:

Return of the Fishing Party.

The Andrews party returned from their Four Pond fishing trip on the 11th. They caught 101 pond trout while there. H. G. Fletcher of South Paris was unable to go but John C. Shepard took his place.

While there the party was visited by A. F. Hinds, Portland, and guide, S. H. Ring. With these the party was composed of 12 people. They were not all there at any one time however. They occupied two camps a portion of the time.

During the six days' stay there were 32 different people at the camps, parties from Dixfield, Monmouth and Buckfield. It is a wonder how the fishing holds up as well as it does as the water is continually fished from June 1st to the closing of the season.

Several deer were seen. Their tracks were numerous. Raspberries were everywhere.

Mrs. Forrest Thurston recently visited at Baker Thurston's in Bethel.

Charles Elwood Brooks preaches at South Waterford and Sweden next Sabbath.

Mrs. Somerby and Dorothea Thomes of Portland spent the Sabbath at Helen Noyes'.

Mrs. William Thurston of Errol, N. H. is visitiug her son Forrest D. Thurston at Elmhurst Farm.

The Methodist pastor, Rev. C. A. Brooks, baptized seven candidates at the river last Sabbath morning.

George W. Wood is building a two-story dormer window on the northerly side of his Cottage street home.

Maps showing roads in this county can be had at this office. Price 25 and 50 cents. Sent by mail on receipt of price.

Mrs. J. M. French, Carl E. Stone and Beatrice Stone went Monday for a week's stay at Prof. J. M. French's, Northwood, N. H.

One hundred and fifteen tickets were sold Sunday morning for the Portland excursion, six being camp meeting tickets the remainder clear through. The branch car was more heavily loaded than usual, standing room only being at a premium and the same was true of the main line train of eleven cars.

Company D at Wakefield.

The team representing Maine left Augusta Monday morning, going to Wakefield, Mass., entering in matches there.

Tuesday the Company D team, composed of Capt. J. W. Nash, Sergt. M. P. Stiles, Sergt. L. H. Daughraty, Sergt. C. A. Marston, Sergt. W. P. Marston and Corp. Geo. T. Tubbs, being five men and substitute, competed in the company match, and won the trophy presented by the First Corps of cadets, M. V. M., and a cash prize of $25. Their score was 137 at 200 yards and 150 at 500 yards, total 287, four points over their nearest competitors.

The First Regiment team shot Wednesday in the regimental match. At 300 they stood fifth, and at 600 and for the match fourth, scores 232, 227, total 459. Sergt. M. P. Stiles was second in the individual shoot for the O'Keefe trophy, score 45.

Sergt. W. P. Marston won the Bancroft individual trophy with a score of 44.

Mrs. William Wirt Virgin of Portland is a guest of her brother, George A. Cole.

Helen S. Swan of West Everett, Mass., is spending a few weeks with her mother, Mrs. Rowena Swan.

"Cream and separated milk, W. B. DeCoster" reads the lettering on a new milk cart on our street.

Susie King of Bethel is the guest of Jennie Mann. Wednesday afternoon Gladys Buck gave a party in her honor.

Mrs. Mary Stearns and children are to move to Lewiston. Her sister, Mrs. Jennie Pinkham, is to go with the family.

Mrs. George West and Miss Giles of New York haye been stopping a few days at the Beals' House. They are going to stop a few weeks at C. F. Boober's.

Mrs. S. C. Foster was taken sick Sunday with a severe cold, and for a time pneumonia was feared, but it is now thought that she will avoid that fell disease.

Thursday, George A. Cole presented the ADVERTISER man three specimens of last year's Northern Spy apples, which are as firm and crisp as when gathered.

Dr. F. E. Drake is on a few days' vacation, and with Mrs. Drake is at Brunswick. They return Sunday. This is the first vacation the doctor has taken in five years, he says.

R. T. Hillman, tailor from Calias who works for F. H. Noyes Co. has secured a rent in the Tubbs house on Danforth street and has brought his family here. He has a wife and two children.

The insurance of C. B. Cummings & Sons has been adjusted, they receiving the insurance of $3800, and the loss will be at least double that sum. A stock of hop poles belonging to Col. A. S. Haywood of South Waterford, which was under the storehouse, valued at from $800 to $1000 was also a total loss.

Ezra T. Shedd and wife and nephew, Franklin W. McVeigh of Chicago have been visiting in this vacinity. Ezra T. was a son of John Symonds Shedd of this town. He has been in Chicago for more than forty years. He has a sister Mrs. Alice Rolfe who lives on the home place. While here they stopped at the Elm House.

SOUTH PARIS.

The Paris Schools.

Slumbers Disturbed.

Doors Tried and Explosion Heard.

About 2 o'clock Friday morning, J. P. Richardson, who was sitting in an easy chair by an open window in his dining-room, heard steps on the sidewalk below and some one turn the knob of the outside door. He ordered the trespassers to get out, a command which was promptly obeyed, and two men fled. What sounded like a pistol shot was heard about the same time.

About 1 o'clock Sunday morning an explosion was heard, which was claimed to be like a cannon cracker or small dynamite charge, and took place in the hollow back of Shurtleff's store, and it is said some people saw smoke rising from there. No trace, however, has been discovered of explosion or injury.

Property Found.

Friday, a well dressed stranger delivered to Jailer Farrar a package which he found near the lower crossing at Fore street, where the Oxford road and Welchville road separate. The package contained an old pocketbook which had been taken from Mr. Wheeler's desk, several bunches of keys, a souvenir Knight Templar badge belonging to Mr. Wheeler and Miss Baker's penknife, also some keys that Mr. Wheeler does not identify. The man told a straight story and Mr. Farrar after severely questioning him let him go.

Couldn't Lift Ten Pounds.

Doan's Kidney Pills Brought Strength and Health to the Sufferer, Making Him Feel Twenty-Five Years Younger.

Sick kidneys cause a weak, lame or aching back, and a weak back makes a weak man. Can't be well and strong until the kidneys are cured. Treat them with Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's the testimony of one man cured.

J. B. CORTON.

J. B. Corton, farmer and lumberman, of Deppe, N. C., says "I suffered for years with my back. It was so bad that I could not walk any distance nor even ride in easy buggy. I do not believe I could have raised ten pounds of weight from the ground, the pain was so severe. This was my condition when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They quickly relieved me and now I am never troubled as I was. My back is strong and I can walk or ride a long distance and feel just as strong as I did twenty-five years ago. I think so much of Doan's Kidney Pills that I have given a supply of the remedy to some of my neighbors and they have also found good results. If you can sift anything from this rambling note that will be of any service to you, or to any one suffering from kidney trouble, you are at liberty to do so."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Corton will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

Our Four-footed Neighbor.

Whether we slay them and eat them, or bid them to toil and to labor,
And carry our burdens, their cry of pain forever goes up to the Lord.
The song of the wind is an echo of the grief of our four-footed neighbor,
And the murmuring sea it seemeth to me sigheth in mournful accord.
The source of our food and our raiment, source of our sport or employment,
The birds of the air, the beasts of the field, the fishes that swim in the waters,
All feel the oppression that Man, in his pride and cruel enjoyment,
Has bidden them bear, n stall, nest or lair, as he hunts, and he traps, and he slaughters.
Oh Lord, are we made in Thy image? Art Thou blind, art Thou deaf to the anguish
That Thy "heirs" have unceasingly caused ever since the beginning till now?
Caress Thou not for Thy creatures, created in bondage to languish,
Victims of blood-lust and greed are all of the wrongs we allow?
Art Thou pleased with the churches we built Thee, and the flattering praises we offer?
Our long-winded prayers, do they rise to Thy ears above the dull moaning of pain
Of the weak and oppressed in the land, our sorrowing four-footed brothers?
Oh God! Loving God in Thy strength! How long must they sorrow in vain?

A Double Mistake.

An incident to you I will relate
Although it's strange 'tis true,
Of a widowed mother, young and gay,
And the fellow she thought she knew.
As on her way from town one eve
A team stopped close by her side,
In a voice calm and clear
He said, "Won't you have a ride"?
Stepping back and looking up
Her eyes are past their prime,
Some of her friends heard her remark
"Land yes, I'll ride with you any time."
She gave one leap and landed
Beside him on the seat,
The horse struck out at a lively pace
His speed could not be beat.
She left her two children without a word,
Plodding alone on the road,
With a bushel of potatoes and other stuff,
They carried a heavy load.
His horse it went so glib and swift
Her children were soon out of mind,
With tired feet in dust and dark,
They trudged along behind.
She says, "You see I knew your horse,"
Then on other topics commenced to chat
But when his name dropped from her lips,
He replied, "No act quite that."
Then taking a good squint at him
She could hardly believe her eyes
And when he discovered his mistake,
They were both somewhat surprised.
On finding out who each other was,
Their ride soon came to an end,
She had mistaken him for another man,
He'd taken her for his friend.
Inquiring he found her home was near,
Into the yard he took a bee-line,
Out of the carriage she hopped like a bird
And exclaimed, "That ride was fine."
Once at home and fully explained
Of her mistake about the horse,
Her sister informed her that she'd better be careful
Or someone would carry her off.
All those who read this take my advice,
And this moral ever keep,
Just gaze at the man instead of the horse,
And, look before you leap. A READER.

A Maine Hunter of Former Days.

Joshua Gross Rich was born in the town of New Sharon, on the 24th of April, 1820. The State of Maine was incorporated that year, so Mr. Rich said that he and Maine were twins.

His parents moved from Cape Cod in 1814. His father was a sea captain, and the sea stories told the children at home created in the mind of young Rich a strong desire to try an ocean life, which he did in 1836—following the sea five years—his last voyage being in the ship Hercules of Boston, Capt. Gregerson, to Charleston, S. C. and to Europe; Mr. Rich went as mate of the ship.

On his return home he got acquainted with a young lady—Mary N. Day, of Gloucester, Mass. This broke up the sailor life and they were married the 28th of September, 1842.

The experience of the sea fitted him for the smaller navigation of the lakes and rivers of Maine, and the rough life of a hunter in the then wild regions of the Maine forests.

After a year or two spent in Boston and vicinity, they moved to the Rangely lakes—first settling on township No. 4, in the second range where a Boston man (Dr. Adams), who owned the township, had built a house. This was seven miles from the first house in Raagley and thirty-five miles to a postoffice or store. Here he learned to trap fur game and hunt the moose and other large animals, which were then abundant in the lake country. The Adams farm so-called was on the side of Mooselookmaguntic Lake.

After remaining about two years at this place they moved to Richardson farm on Mollychunkamunk Lake, about the center of the lake country, and some twenty miles from neighbors, where they lived nearly seven years. Here they had children born to them and lost two, one of which they buried on the shore of the lake, beside the body of Rosalia, the wife of Old Metalakla, an Indian chief. Both bodies are now fifteen feet under water, caused by the dam noistiug the water of the lake.

This was in 1846, and game about the lakes was very abundant and Mr. Rich stocked in piles of fur every year and shot moose, caribou and bear to his soul's content.

At Cranberry Bog pond he killed ten bears a year, for three years—situated about eight miles from his home, in a lonely basin between mountains on every side. One year, on these hunting grounds, he trapped and killed forty-nine Canada lynx. There were no white men hunters then about the Rangeleys except two—Capt. Kimball and George Soule, father of Billy Soule, who owns Pleasant Island Camps.

There were in those days a few scattering Indians, occasionally roaming through the forest, but they were generally friendly. Moose were very plentiful and were easily captured in the deep snow in the winter, or in the waters of lake and river in summer.

Mr. Rich's life in the woods was naturally attended by many privations, sleeping half covered in the open air—drenched by sleet storms, overtaken by night far from his camps, in the cold winters, and often with scanty food and tired limbs. The young and delicate wife of the hunter was a wonder of her sex—left alone for weeks together, with young babes, twenty miles to a neighbor through a roadless wilderness, meeting the wild beasts near her house oftentimes when alone. The moose and bear often passed the house within a few paces and sometimes the children were driven into the house by bears.

On one occasion, while the lakes were breaking up, they lived on Indian meal alone for six weeks—no milk, sugar, molasses, flour, butter, pork or any other material, except salt. Incidents of these ten years would fill a volume. In 1853, Mr. Rich moved down to Upton, on Letter B township—it was then the lower or south end of all the Rangeleys—and continuing his hunting and trapping over his former grounds he had a line, out and in, sixty miles in length, and through the hunting season he tended his line, traveling ten miles a day, returning home every Saturday night and going again Monday morning.

In 1861 he built "Anglers' Retreat," or log camp, to entertain hunters and and anglers. This was run successfully for several years, and in 1870 he sold out his interests in Upton and bought a farm near Bethel.

In 1864 and 1865, Mr. Rich furnished Professor Agassiz, for the Museum of Comparative Zoology of Cambridge, Mass., with more than a thousand dollars' worth of Maine animals, birds, fishes and reptiles—in living subjects, skeletons, skins to mount and in sprits. Scores of subjects through the museum bear his name. The living animals were sent to Europe to exchange with the Paris "Gardens" for other specimens which could not be purchased with money.

Mr. Rich killed 73 bears, between 50 and 60 moose, several hundred wild cats of various kinds, and beaver, otter, mink, martin, fox, fisher and muskrats innumerable, besides securing living specimens of bear, moose, lynx and almost every Maine animal. And many a hand-to-hand set-to has he had with bears—once just escaping with his life, very thinly clad.

Mr. Rich has been dead several years. After the death of his first wife he married another most estimable woman, who survives him. At the breaking up of the Old Ladies' Home at Norway she was an inmate. She returned to Bethel village, where she now makes her home.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

James French.

James French, formerly of this place, died in Ossipee, Sunday, July 30, aged about fifty years. He was never married. He leaves four brothers, William H. of this place, Daniel of Limerick, Samuel of Porter and George of Boston; and two sisters, Mrs. Alamando Morton of Ashland, N. H., and Mrs. Samuel Hatch of this place. The funeral services were held at Mr. Hatch's, Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 1st.

He was brought home the 31st. He was laid to rest by the side of his parents in the family lot. He was a great sufferer and had a long sickness. The Rev. Mr. Ivory of Conway spoke words of comfort to the mourning ones.

All the brothers were at the funeral. He was a loved one of the family and the youngest one. There were lots of flowers from friends and a large number of friends and neighbors attended the funeral.

Quite a number of city people came to this place to board the past week.

John Willey and wife and Hattie and Ethel Hill of this place attended the Centennial at Harrison.

George French of Boston stopped for a few days after his brother's funeral and visited his brother, William, and his sister, Mrs. Hatch.

Joseph Johnson of Conway, just this side of Fryeburg line, and his wife and daughter Carrie and a lady friend made calls in the place on Thursday, the 3d. Carrie was a former teacher here. All of her friends were glad to meet with her again. She is home from the Normal school in Salem, Mass.

A Good Investment of One Dollar.

Kent Harmon.

The marriage of Etta Eliza Harmon, daughter of Mrs. Hattie Harmon of Harrison and George Edward Kent, division superintendent of the International Paper Co. of Berlin, took place at 8 o'clock, Wednesday evening, Aug. 9, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Samuel Rogers, 164 Congress street, Portland. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

In every room a frieze of evergreen and pink and white roses was formed from the ceiling down about four feet. The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Bowley Green of the First Baptist church, took place under an arch, which was of evergreen and roses. Pinks, ferns and palms were also used for decorations.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine, duchess lace trimmed. She wore her veil back from the face and for an ornament she wore a diamond pin, the groom's gift. Her bouquet was of bride roses.

Miss Isa M. Durey of Boston, who was the only attendent wore Brussels net and carried sweet peas. Harry Peterson of this city was the best man. There were no ushers. Miss Agnes Whitman played the wedding march. A reception followed the ceremony. Mrs. L. D. Mathis served punch and Mrs. Samuel Rogers served ices, assisted by the girl friends of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Kent left for a wedding trip which will include Portland, Ore., San Fransisco and several of the large western cities.

Mrs. Kent travelled in brown costume with hat to match. Upon their return they will reside at 77 High street, Berlin, N. H. Mrs. Kent is a graduate of the Bridgton Academy, also the Gorham normal school. She has taught school in Berlin where both Mr. and Mrs. Kent have many friends and are held in high esteem.

Sudden Attack of Dysentery Cured.
A prominent lady of Brooklyn, N. Y., writes to enquire where she can obtain Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. She says: "While stopping at a ranch in South Dakota I was taken ill of what seemed to be cholera. They gave me some of this medecine and it cured me. I brought a bottle home and have just used the last of it to-day. Mother was taken suddenly ill of dysentery and it helped her immediately." When the steamer Longfellow sailed away from Harrison at 4 p. m., Thursday of last week, she left her wharf afire and a strong wind blowing. For a time it looked as if the flames would sweep up the village, but by quick work they were extinguished.

The Fifth Maine, Col. C. S. Edwards' old regiment, held their reunion Aug. 9, and 10, at their regimental hall on Peaks Island. Among those present were Mrs. W. A. Tobie, Mechanic Falls, James B. Merrill, East Stoneham: Edwin Meserve, Lovell: S. N. Littlehale, Bethel.

WAY TO TREAT HAY FEVER.

No Stomach Dosing, Just Breathe Hyomei—Stops Sneezing and Smarting.

Noyes Drug Store are recommending to their customers as a cure for hay fever Hyomei.

It is claimed for this remedy that it stops the spasmodic paroxysms, the sneezing, the smarting and running of the eyes and nose and other acute symptoms of this disease.

Many persons have been cured of hay fever by Hyomei, and the discoverer of the remedy professes to be able to prevent by the occurrence of the annual attack and to stop the progress of the disease, even in the most chronic forms.

A Hamlin of Westford, Mass., writes "Hyomei cured me of hay fever in one week's time. I consider it a duty to tell others who suffer from this disease."

This endorsement is only one of hundreds that have been received by the proprietors of Hyomei, and Noyes Drug Store offer to refund the money if Hyomei does not do all that is claimed for it, is the strongest proof that can be given as to the confidence they have in Hyomei's power to cure hay fever. The complete outfit costs but $1.00, while extra bottles can be procured for 50 cts.

BEWARE OF SUMMER GERM

Will Cause Sickness Unless Stomach Strengthened with Mi-o-na.

One tablet of Mi-o-na taken after each meal during the summer months, whenever the stomach is out of order, or the digestion weak, will do more than any other treatment to prevent the diseases caused by the germs at this season.

If the stomach is weak so that food does not readily digest in it, the food will become a sour, slimy, fermenting mass in the digestive organs, the perfect condition for germs to cause sickness, trouble, diarrhoea, or other summer disorders.

Mi-o-na will soothe and heal the irritated mucous membrane of the stomach and digestive tract, stimulate the digestive plexus, and strengthen the whole nervous system. This remarkable tonic will make the whole digestive system healthy, clean and sweet that food will not ferment, and any disease germs which may enter the stomach will be destroyed.

Just one small tablet out of a 25 cent box of Mi-o-na before eating, and you will have no headaches, backache, loss of appetite, distress after eating, sour stomach, burn, furred tongue, sleeplessness, nervousness, general debility. It will tone the whole digestive system and give perfect health and strength.

Take Mi-o-na now, and Noyes Drug Store will guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. The risk is all theirs.

Distinguished Guests' Playground

Waterford, Me., Aug. 14, 1905.

This charming suburb of Brooklyn, Baltimore, Boston, et cetera, is this year having more than its usual share of summer visitors and is taxed to its fartherest limits to comfortably house them. There are over one hundred and fifty guests, of which among the sterner sex the professions take first place. Among these may be mentioned:

Gen'l. W. Starbird of Boston, Surgeon of Mass. Soldiers Hospital.
Dr. Beach of Westport, Conn.
Drs. Gordon, Hillyer and Gould of Brooklyn, N. Y.
Dr. Keeler of Philadelphia, Pa.

These gentlemen with their families occupy a prominent part in the various diversions that are usually found to promote the enjoyment of a summer colony.

The clergy are represented by Rev. Thomas E. Pattison of Baltimore, Md., Revs. Dr. Holmes of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Haskins of Boston, with an occasional visit from Dr. Gibbons of Philadelphia, now at North Bridgton, an old timer here, a fisher of fishes as well as a fisher of men, and who yesterday preached an eloquent sermon in the Congregational church of which the venerable and beloved Dr. Perry is the pastor.

Prof. John Hyatt Brewer of Brooklyn, Prof. Carroll Maxcy of Williams College, Williamstown, Mass, Mr. Ryder of New Haven, Conn., eminent in their varied professions, add to the number of distinguished gentlemen already mentioned.

There are others. Mr. Parker of Boston and family are occupying their charming cottage on the shore of Lake Keoka. Their latch-string is always out and their graphophone (?) often adds to the enjoyment of the boating on the lake.

The old family mansion originally built and occupied by the late Dr. Gage, one of Waterford's earliest physicians, and more recently by the late Mr. Elipha-let Porter, has recently been purchased of the Porter family by the Gage family of Worcester, Mass., who have recently taken possession.

Others who have been or are still here this season are Dr. Hitchcock of Malden, an old timer and successful fisherman; Mr. Fanning and daughter of Providence, R. I.; Benjamin Wyman of Brooklyn, N. Y., Mrs. Lawrence and daughter of the same city; Major Charles W. Stevens of Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Stevens; Mr. Potter of Boston and family; Mr. Hunting and wife of Brooklyn, with many others.

Among the many pleasant entertainments of recent occurrence special mention should be made of a delightful musicale given at the residence of Dr. Hillyer, to which all were invited and quite a number participated with their various musical instruments and voices.

On August 3d, Geo. R. Ewan and wife of Bloomfield, N. J., gave a dance party in Masonic hall in celebration of his daughter Estella's birthday. This, like that given a year ago by them, in honor of a like event, was numerously attended and congratulations were showered upon Mr. and Mrs. Ewan for the success of the entertainment and the possession of such a charming daughter.

Quite an impromptu gathering, and thereby most successful was the Costume prize eucher party held at the Lake House music hall a few evenings since, of which the judges were Mrs. Dudley and Mr. Fanning.

Among the chararters represented were, Miss Stratford, Brooklyn, N. Y., Queen of Diamonds; Miss Brown, same city, Queen of Hearts; Miss Fanning of Providence, R. I., Queen of Clubs; Miss Lawrence of Brooklyn, Queen of Spades; Miss Edytha Brown, same city, as Buster Brown. Miss B's costume was exceedingly well gotten up and deservedly took first prize for her character and chic; Miss Beech of Westport, Conn., Looking Backward, quite effective. Miss Hope, Red Cross; Mrs. Brewer of Brooklyn as Mrs. Gammage astonished her friends by her skilful make-up which was so perfect that she was hardly recognized by her intimates.

Dr. and Mrs. Hillyer, Tennis, Miss Gould, Fishing Girl, Mr. Fanning as "The lone fisherman," Miss Starbird, Boston, Miss Grimes, Mt. Washington, Md., and Miss Smith, Brooklyn, as Japanese girls, Miss Woodruff, "aunt Jemima," Miss Hildreth of Brooklyn, Dinah, black as the ace of spades yet sweet as a peach; Prof. Maxcy, Beau Brummell, Mr. Brewer, Book tourist, Mrs. C. W. Stevens, wall flower. Major Stevens, "Not in it," Karl Pfeiffer and Jack Hogan, schoolgirls, Miss Ryder of New Haven as "Sis Hopkins," Gertrude Querean of Brooklyn, Mother Goose, and as "Tiny Tim" said "Such a goose," no wonder the ganders wandered and followed. Claire Querean and Mrs. Putnam of Brooklyn as "Babes in the Woods," sweet babes, and finally, Mrs. Starbird of Boston as Martha Washington.

On Saturday evening last, Dr. Hillyer, to whom all are indebted for his indefatigable efforts to estertain the visitors, invited all the village guests and residents to visit his charming new cottage on a beautiful hillside overlooking Keoka Lake. Needless to say the invitation so widely extended was almost universally accepted and more than 100 guests ascended the hill to pay their respects to the genial doctor and his accomplished wife.

The cottage was pronounced perfect and the view superb. The first fire was lighted in the commodious and artistic fireplace by Mrs. Perry, wife of Rev. Dr. Perry, and Mrs. Dudley of the Lake House, to which Kenneth, the doctor's son, a comely youth of ten years, added his match. The grounds about the cottage were brilliantly illuminated and a jolly evening spent in singing and varied amusements.

The guests were received by Mrs. Hillyer, Mrs. Dr. Gordon and Mrs. Green. At the docter's request a number of slips were handed him suggesting a name for the cottage. That no contributor should feel disappointed at their name not being chosen the docter wisely selected one of his own choice, viz: "Pen-y-Byrn" (house on the hill.) That the occupants may enjoy many happy summers in their cosy villa is the earnest wish of their many friends.

On Saturday afternoon the Waterford boys defeated the Bolster's Mills nine after an exciting game, the score being 7 to 6.

Other interesting events which were to take place early in the coming week have been postponed for the present owing to the death of Mrs. A. Wilkins, an old and beloved resident of the village.

Are we to have a railroad? Our last expected one fizzled out, will this one? Wait and see. Deponent saith not.

Weather again delightful after three unusually warm days for Waterford.

The Maine State Poultry association will be held in Portland, Dec. 6-8.

On Greenwood Mountain.

Apropos of the many building enterprises which are going on here, there is much local interest in the new Maine State Sanatorium, a home for consumptives. This is being established on Greenwood mountain, about three miles from Hebron academy, and Dr. Estes Nichols is to be the manager.

The main or executive building of the institution is donated by a Mr. Chamberlain. According to the plans which are soon to be completed by John Calvin Stevens & Son, the well-known architects of this city, the main building is to be a very commodious and up-to-date structure.

Mr. Stevens, jr., was kind enough to submit the entire plans of the big central building to your correspondent, one day this week. They are herewith published for the first time.

The main structure is to be 138 feet long and 48 feet wide. Then there will be an ell 53 x 33 feet. The building will be located on the sunny slope of the mountain in the very midst of the numerous cottages for the patients, so that the lower corner will be on a level with the ground. In this corner will be the examination rooms consisting of lobby, waiting and medical rooms, pharmacy, laboratory and electrical peparments. In this section will also be the throat room and dark room.

In the other end of the basement will be the sterilizing, storage and billiard rooms. The rooms in the ell on this floor will be private sitting room and chambers and storage room for groceries and general supplies.

The main stairway will lead up to the floor above in about the center of the building. The first floor, which is one of the most imposing sections of the building will have a dining room at one end and assembly room at the other. Each of these will be 38 feet square and will be connected by a corridor leading through the center of the building. On one side of the corridor will be reading room and toilets. On the other side, general office, writing room and parlor. The main entrance to the building will be directly in the center, the hall-way leading into the central corridor.

There will be a piazza 12 feet wide extending across the front and one end, and it can readily be imagined that the view will be one of the finest in all Maine.

The ell will connect with the dining room through the serving room. Beyond will be the kitchen, 18x31 feet. The pastry room, a smaller dining room, work room and ice chest occupy the remainder of the ell.

The second floor of the main building will be devoted to superintendent's chamber and sitting room and the other chambers for the officers and matrons of the institution. The rooms in the ell on this floor will be for the help. The third floor will have eight rooms for the nurses.

It is understood that no patients will be housed in the main building or the ell. They will be provided with cottages all grouped around the main executive and so located with generous lawns between them, that they will get the sun throughout the day. Messrs. Stevens have already sketched the plans of several of these cottages and to say that they will be marvels of convenience, cheerfulness and pretty architecture in the cottage style is scant praise.

At present the company are building a large barn and both this and the handsome executive mansion as above outlined will probably be housed in and ready for occupancy before snow flies. The material to be used in constructing the exterior of the mansion will be brick. The entire plant will be heated and lighted by a central power plant which will be located at the foot of the mountain. Messrs. Stevens will soon begin work on these plans.

And here is the golden rod!

It is the prettiest of the fall flowers with its graceful stalks and golden plumes. It tells the story of the beginning of the end—that the beautiful summer is soon to give way to the fall and the cheerless winter. Though the goldenrod is beautiful it suggests misgiving, and, like the roseate sunset, brings to mind the suggestion of darkness to follow.

Hiram's Deer Story.

Deer Used to Come Out and Knock the Lambs over, Wasn't Much Afraid of a Gun.

A prosperous farmer from a neighboring town got out one of his old wagons the other day (one he said wouldn't hurt if it did happen to find a little mud) and drove into Millinocket to see what spring was doing for us and incidentally to do a little trading. As is his custom, he hitched his horse and went into one of the stores, where he was soon lost in conversation with other laborers off duty, who were rapidly forgetting the numerous errands upon which their patient wives had sent them. As the talk went on from spring, fishing, etc., to fall and hunting, Hiram, our farmer friend, remarked that if he had been any kind of a hunter he might have had a deer last fall "slicker'n grease."

"How's that?" and "Tell us about it!" spoke up the interested listeners, and Hiram shifting his weight onto the other leg and pulling his hat down a little more to keep out the sun, began:

"Most of you fellers know where my farm is down there"—jerking his thumb over his shoulder—"don't yer? Well, yer know my sheep parster's just in front of the house acrost the road and yer know there's a hill which takes up nigh onto all the parster in sight. Well, one mornin' last fall I went out 'bout five o'clock to do my milking and I heerd one of the sheep a-blatin' like fury an' then another tuk it up an' then another an' pretty quick the hull blamed lot of 'em came a-scamperin' down over the hill as if the Old Harry an' all was arter 'em. I listened a minit or two, thinkin' probly 'twas one o' them sneak dogs a chasin' 'em, but I didn't hear nothin' so I went to milkin' and forgot all about it.

"Well sir just a day or two arter that as I was doin' up my chores I heerd them sheep a-goin' through the same performance agin'. Thinks I, there's suthin up, sure's preachin', an' just then a big buck deer trotted over the hill an' down among the sheep. They acted pretty scart and huddled closer to the bars but I didn't see nothin' alarmin'.

Fust thing I knowed, tho', that thundering bunch of horns an' legs drawed off an' bunted into one of my big lambs and knocked him ten feet. Then he tackled another an' everlastin'ly lambasted him an' rolled him down over the hill. I run out with my pitchfork an' yelled at him like mad an' he took to the woods at a good pace. Then I helped the lambs up on to their pins, but they didn't seem to be hurt any, far's I could see, only a leetle winded, so I thought it wuzn't wuth while to git out a search warrant for the beast.

"In less than a week arter that, I'll be blest if that sassy critter didn't show up agin as familiar as yer please and git at his mornin' stunt agin. Fust he hauled off an' waded into my big Southdown buck an' the way he flattened that feller out most tuk my breatn away. He jest give one blat an' kicked up his heels an' rolled up his eyes in a sort of discouraged way an' I thought he wuz a-goner for sure, but before I could git there he had come to, an' crawled off behind a rock. By this time the deer had rattled the slats of two or three more an' I wuz pretty mad. I loaded up with rocks as big as I could handle an' I chased him an' pelted him till he wuz beyond my throw. I'll bet he's got the marks of some of them 'ere rocks yit. I'd got pretty sick an' tired of the bizness an' I vowed I'd git a gun an' shoot him if he didn't stay in the woods where he belonged. I'll stand a few sheep bein' killed by dogs every year, but when it comes to raisin' 'em up for wild critters to fool with in that way, that's askin' a leetle too much of her uncle.

"Well, it warn't very long before I went out ter grind my ax to cut some bushes an' I happened to look up an' I see that cussed creetur comin' up through the openin' 'bout half a mile off joggin' along not in any partickeler hurry. I dropped my ax an' run down to Bill's to borrer his gun. I thought I'd give the animil a good scare even if I couldn't kill him. Bill had been down river a few days before, an' he wuz kinder surly that mornin' an' he swore he wouldn't lend his gun onless he went along to use it. There wuzn't anything I could do so I told him we got to hurry or I wouldn't have any sheep left. Bill wuz a leetle onsteady on his legs and couldn't hurry nigh so fast as I wanted him to.

"When we got to the bars there wuz that buck a-shakin' his head at the sheep, sorter darin' 'em an' diggin' up the dirt. 'Fire, Bill,' sez I, 'Let 'im have it!' Bill pulled the trigger an' sent his load of ammunition up into the top of that big elm an' the deer bobbed up an' cracked his heels together an' circled over the hill. Fore he could git over the fence, back he come an' looked at Bill as much as ter say, 'Say, pard, I didn't know 'twas loaded.' He looked so sassy it raised my bile an' I grabbed the gun and loaded it an' fired. I must have hit him somewheres for he let out a divil of a blat an' put off up the hill. Just at the top he turned 'round an' shook his head at us, then with a sorter twinkle in his left eye he waved us a good-bye with his white flag an' that wuz the last I seen of him."

As Hiram finished he took out his pipe and filled it and remarked, "If any of you fellers wanter git a crack at a deer next fall, just come down my way an' shoot off some of the sassy cusses an' I'll give yer yer dinner for it." He sauntered out, picked his way across the road and untied his horse while the crowd dispersed in groups of twos and threes.—[Millinocket Journal.

Squirrel's Memory.

For Places Where it Has Buried Nuts it Is Very Remarkable.

"One of the many familiar sounds of the summer woods is the rattling bark of the red squirrel," writes an observer. "The tones of his voice are varied, and there is a great difference between his angry bark, his cry of fear, the chattering monologue with which he addresses an intruder on his domain, the running fire of repartee which is the constant accompaniment of the antics of the pair at play, and the long, rattling roll-call which he utters from sheer enjoyment of the sound or as a challenge to some unseen enemy of his own tribe, and which reverberates through the woods often with sufficient force to carry the sound for as much as half or three quarters of a mile. If we listen for an instant when we hear one of these challenges sent forth we may hear it answered from some distant point, so faintly that we cannot be certain that it is not an echo. Some other male has heard the challenge and detecting the self-satisfied note in it, has answered; and we may be fairly certain that they are hastening toward each other, each with the intention of annihilating his foe or at least teaching him a lesson.

"Gray squirrels, unlike most of the rodents, do not hibernate in the winter time, but are abroad and very active during most of the season. Their nests are then in hollow trees. But they usually leave these retreats in March, and build airier and less vermin-infested abodes of leaves and twigs in the treetops. If you can watch a gray squirrel gathering nuts in the fall you will see him take a nut in his cheek pouch and hop along the ground, testing it every few yards with his front teeth. When he has found a spot entirely to his liking he will scoop out a shallow hole and, placing his nut in it, will cover it up with the loose earth. This he will stamp down and restore to its former condition by scraping the loose leaves and small stones over it.

"This performance he repeats again and again in that and other localities, until he has hidden away in this manner a large quantity of nuts, one squirrel often burying several hundred. In the winter, as he needs them, he unearths these nuts, and it is wonderful how unerringly he can go to his various caches, even though, as frequently happens, they may all be covered with a foot or more of snow."

This is the season for green apples. They come high—that is, costs a few cents for the apples and a dollar for the doctor.

W. H. Brackett & Son of Dixfield have recently bought a valuable sow from Hood Farm, Lowell, Mass. The sire of the animal is Model Duke of Hood Farm, first prize boar at the New York State fair last fall. The dam is Hood Farm Lady Charlton 5th. Young stock from Hood Farm is much sought after for the foundation of herds and the improvement of herds already existing. Berkshires from Hood Farm won 87 prizes at the fairs last fall.

Fred Edwards, wife, and his sister and husband, and Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Smith of Otisfield visited Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Stanley, Sunday.

Douglass Reunion.

The seventh annual reunion of Miss H. E. Douglass and her pupils on Aug. 9th proved a success as the previous ones have, and rather more in one sense as it brought some who had never been before, but who feel quite sure they will come again. The day was as good as could be wished or expected at this season of the year, when dog days are prevalent.

The old scholars began to file in before ten o'clock, each with his or her basket or box of dinner, not to mention the generous array of bean pots. In an incredible short space of time a goodly company was assembled and the good time commenced. Old friendships, broken these many years, were renewed and "all went merry as a marriage bell."

Dinner was served promptly at noon to which the company did ample justice.

Chairman J. W. Weston called order at 1.30 and Miss Douglass called the roll. Twenty-one scholars answered present. Those from out of town were Rebecca Elden Lowell of Boston, W. W. Twombly of Norway, Harriet Wardwell Brackett of Oxford, Mrs. Cyrus Hayes of Oxford, a pupil at Gorham Seminary, Mrs. Geo. F. Walker (Fanny Chadbourne) of Portland, formerly of Oxford, Mrs. Eila Haskell Hancock of Melrose, Mass.

A. S. Caswell of Boston, who has been present every previous year, was unable to be present on account of illness of long standing. He was much missed and many inquiries were made regarding his weltare.

Those present for the first time were Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Walker and N. H. Seavey. Mr. and Mrs. Granville Fernald of Washington, D. C., formerly of Harrison, and Cyrus Scribner, a native of Harrison, now of Providence, R. I., were among the invited guests.

Mr. Fernald occupied the time for a brief space, also Mr. Scribner. Miss Douglass spoke in her usual interesting and instructive manner. Letters were read from S. B. Edwards and C. H. Weston, who much regretted that they could not be present. Remarks were made by several of the pupils. Dr. E. A. Wight with his orchestra of four pieces brought forth good music. A song by Mrs. Fred Green, Mrs. A. W. Weston accompanist, was finely rendered. A recitation by little Miss Scribner was very good.

A vote was taken to meet next year, 1906, at about the same time. After all expressed themselves as having enjoyed the day, the company dispersed to their several homes.

BETHEL.

Dr. Morton and T. J. Foster are still very low.

A number of the farmers are still haying, in pleasant weather.

E. B. Goddard is seen on the streets nearly every pleasant day.

The eclipse of the moon Tuesday evening was followed by a heavy rain.

E. C. Park and family returned Tuesday from a week's outing at the shore.

A half dozen autos are now owned in the village and others are coming right along.

Nearly every day is seen at least one auto, at Herrick Bros'. machine shop for repairs.

E. C. Bowler and family are on an auto trip, visiting in Palermo and adjoining towns.

C. C. Bryant has had an operation for the relief of his injured hip, at the Lewiston hospital, and is reported improving.

Mrs. A. W. Grover visited her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Pratt, at Oxford, last Monday, returning Tuesday, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. H. A. Skillings and little daughter Joan, of Harvard, Mass.

A three-horse team at the station, Tuesday afternoon, became frightened at the cars and in the excitement threw the leader to the ground, and his weight was the means of stopping a further runaway. No serious damage done.

Crowds of berry pickers are going daily to Grover Mountain in Albany, where hundreds of bushels of blueberries have already been gathered. Three years ago the mountain was burned over and this first to bear, is producing an immense crop of fine berries.

Middle Intervale.

Visitors from abroad are flocking home this week, it being Old Home Week.

Joseph Spofford was here Sunday to visit relatives. He has been at work in Gilead.

Clarence Willis of New Glascow, Nova Scotia, is doing some work on the Maple and Pine Farm.

Guy Moores of Rumford Falls was in this vicinity recently selling tea and coffee and fancy groceries; also buying eggs.

Mrs. Rose P. Houghtaling of Philadelphia and Master Cecil Smith, of Boston, are now at Bethel Hill with relatives and friends.

WEST SUMNER.

J. A. Tuell has bought a horse of Freeman Farrar.

A few days last week were called the hottest of the season.

Dr. E. J. Marston returned last Saturday from his vacation.

George A. Chandler went to Lewiston the 10th on business, returning at night.

Freeman Farrar and wife went to Portland last week to the soldiers' reunion.

Lennie P. Merrill and family of Rumford Falls visited their parents, Hiram Howe and wife, last week.

W. E. Doble with his span took the inmates of the Deaconess' Home to Norway last Sunday to attend church there.

George Clark and wife had green corn from their garden, Aug. 9; W. E. Lothrop and family from their garden, the 10th.

Mrs. Winfield S. Ripley from Wakefield, Mass., has been visiting Mr. Ripley's sister, Mrs. Flora Pulsifer, the past week.

The Kemp Family stopped over night at Freeman Farrar's, last Friday. They entertained a gathering there in the evening.

Mr. Wilson exchanged pulpits with the minister from Errol, who was assisted by Rev. Dr. Lyman of Philadelphia.

The poorest haying season for many years, not more than two good days in a week, the others cloudy, and considerable rain.

LOVELL.

Lake Kezar.

A. R. Davis and wife were at C. E. Harmon's, Saturday.

Fred Harmon is in Jackson, N. H., at work for W. O. Brown of Lovell.

Grace Ring has been stopping at Glenoaks Cottage the past two weeks.

Mrs. Frank Harmon caught a bass in Lake Kezar that weighed 4¼ pounds.

Isaac Davis and wife and Mrs. Mary Davis were at Glenoaks Cottage, Friday.

Elwin T. Hubbard, wife and son of Portland are at C. P. Hubbard's cottage for two weeks.

Bennett McDaniels is building a cottage at Lake Kezar. It is made of logs, six rooms and has a fine stone fireplace built by Lloyd Poore. When it is completed it will be a fine place. It can be reached by team and by boat.

George Eastman and wife have returned to South Paris. Mrs. Dolliver and Mrs. Pease, who have been stopping at the Hubbard cottage, left on Friday. They will visit friends for a week or more and then return to their home in Baltimore.

The people on the lake were saddened by the death of little Jack Dolliver at the cottage of C. P. Hubbard, where he was stopping with his mother and other relatives for a vacation. His home was in Baltimore but for the past year he had been stopping with his uncle, George Eastman at South Paris. He had a heart trouble. The funeral was held Saturday, Aug. 5th, at the Congregational church at Lovell village, burial at No. 4.

No. 4.

Fred Eastman of Kearsarge, N. H., is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. W. Howe. Mr. Eastman is in quite poor health, caused by a recent attack of typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Abbott are entertaining their Boston friends at The Sunshine. This summer they are having company the most of the time. A party of automobilists were there last week.

Will Grover, who is boarding at J. W. Howe's this summer and hauling corn boxes from Waterford to Fryeburg and Lovell, was away last week and bought a farm in North Paris. Evidently Will is going to farming. We wish him success.

F. A. Keniston went to Bethel last Sunday to carry Charles and George Stanley, where they were to take the train. George was going to work at Hastings and Charles to canvass the Wild River region. Mr. Stanley is a very successful canvasser.

Why Is There a So Called "Servant Problem?"

The title tells the tale.

New England girls do not like to be called servants. I do not, although I serve the public, but what has that to do with respectable people getting some one to help out with the housework, which is as necessary as making shoes or selling dry goods.

Housework must be done. We must eat, care for the weaker, clothe the small members, wash the same and dress them. Now how is anybody to do this and manage a business at the same time?

I can earn money.

I can do housework but I cannot do both at once.

What is to be done?

Is it a question of pay?

I will pay fifteen dollars a month year round, two weeks' vacation with no loss of time, give a good room; make the situation for one as a member of the family, good treatment mutually expected. There is wood in the shed and kindling always ready.

I always build the fires in the morning.

Is there any one who wants a steady job, regular pay? If there is, correspond at once with WM. C. LEAVITT, Norway, Me.

Did you see the eclipse?

NORTHWEST NORWAY.

Mrs. Cross of Dorchester, Mass., Mrs. Mason of Medford, Mass., and Mrs. Harriman of Oxford were at W. S. Merrill's, Tuesday and Wednesday. Mrs. Mydia Swain also visited there Wednesday and Thursday.

There was a pleasant little gathering at R. E. Kimball's Sunday, the 13th, consisting of Nrs. D. W. Farnum, from Waltham, Mass., Mrs. Thomas Lovejoy of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Merrill of East Waterford and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Doughty of West Paris. The day was clear and beautiful, and a bountiful dinner was served by Mrs. Kimball. The only shadow of the day was the non-appearence of Mrs. Lovejoy's son Frank and family who were coming by automobile from Rumford Falls. When the company disbanded it was with many a wish that they might meet often.

BOLSTER'S MILLS.

Beth Scribner is at Paris Hill visiting a couple weeks.

Mrs. Charles Hancock of Melrose is visiting her relatives and friends here.

Mrs. Harry Scribner and two sons from Connecticut have visited relatives in this place.

The W. C. T. U., met on Thursday with Mrs. Jennie Akers who, assisted by her friend Mrs. Woodbury, served an elaborate lunch. Several visitors were present. Besides the business there were quotations and several readings.

Is It Your Own Hair?

Do you pin your hat to your own hair? Can't do it? Haven't enough hair? It must be you do not know Ayer's Hair Vigor! Here's an introduction! May the acquaintance result in a heavy growth of rich, thick, glossy hair! And we know you'll never be gray.

"I think that Ayer's Hair Vigor is the most wonderful hair grower that was ever made. I have used it for some time and I can truthfully say that I am greatly pleased with it. I cheerfully recommend it as a splendid preparation."—MISS V. BROCK, Wayland, Mich.

Music in the Air.

C. C. Lowell with his graphophone was called on Wednesday evening to assist in dedicating a schoolhouse, which had just been completed. It was a pleasant evening. He arrived there about eight o'clock, finding the house full of people, who were anxiously waiting for the music. Darling Huntress who was manager, saw that everything was in proper shape and that he had that was necessary for the entertainment. He was ushered in before a very large audience. He stood to the machine three hours and if ever a house was filled with music, that one was. After many good remarks were made by Mr. Rounds and others, all wended their way home with the thoughts of a good time, a good house and a good school in the future.

Mrs. Melville Gould is visited by two aunts.

Florence Ridlon is married and has gone to Boston to live.

Sweet corn is maturing very fast and a good harvest is expected.

The Universalist church is closed through the month of August.

There are a great many boarders in town. Eli Wadsworth has 27 at present writing.

I. S. and R. N. Lowell are still haying. They have put in an immense lot of hay this year.

Automobiles and gipsy carts take the road. Where's our part we pay taxes on?

Robbins' circus met with good success at Hiram, there being over a thousand people present.

The heavy rains caused the bogs to flow out and people won't get as much fresh hay as was expected.

The R. F. D. boys tender their best wishes to Postmaster General Cortelyou for his good favors to them.

C. C. Lowell has sold the grass on the upper meadow to F. E. Poore. M. Robbins is cutting the trout bog and lower meadow at the halves.

A short time ago Mrs. O. S. Powers and her daughter Sadie and four nieces came from Boston to spend the summer at their old home in Brownfield.

Summary—Two-base hits, Cole, Tripp, Ayre, Boyker. Three-base hits, Walker 2, Tripp, Files. Stolen bases, Sears 2, Campbell 2, Walker, Pitts. Double plays, Tripp (unassisted). First base on balls, off Mickle 2; off Day 2; off Smith 1. Struck out, by Mickle 4; by Day 6; by Smith 2. Hits off Day, 10 in 6 innings; off Smith, 12 in 3 innings. Passed ball Morris. Wild pitch, Day. Time, 2 hours, 45 minutes. Umpire, Barker.

The Harrison base ball team met the Boston Bankers at North Bridgton on Wednesday, Aug. 9th and won an interesting game by the score of 6 to 3. Mickle would have shut out the Bankers but for the costly error in the 4th inning. The Harrison outfield accepted many hard chances.

Harrison plays Camp Katahdin at Naples in the forenoon of Aug. 19. Old Home day, Naples playing Camp Songo the 18th. The two winners play for a prize in the afternoon, Saturday. A large crowd is planning to go from here.

A Great Sufferer.

Mr. Danielson, the father of Mrs. Geo. Spanlding died at her house on Tuesday. He had been taken to the Maine General Hospital recently but the surgeons there did not think best to perform an operation. Since his return he has been a great sufferer and death came as a welcome release.

Funeral services were held at the house attended by Rev. E. Z. Whitman, assisted by the Grand Army, of which Mr. Danielson was a member. Interment was in the family lot at Limington.

Mrs. S. H. Dawes is very low; also Appleton Haskell of the north part of the town.

The town is full of summer guests. There is scarcely a vacant room at present in the village.

The ball team went to Naples, Saturday in F. P. Bennett's launch. C. W. Jackson also took down a party in his launch.

Fren Garland has opened a barber's shop in the building owned by John Allen who has moved his boot and shoe business into Jordan's store.

LOVELL CENTER.

Annual Fair.

The annual fair of the ladies' Christian circle was held in the vestry, Wednesday afternoon and evening. The vestry was prettily decorated with evergreen trees and the national colors. Many of booths were noticeable for beauty, especially that of Mrs. Card and Mrs. Harmon, who dispensed ice cream and cake. This was made of evergreen and water lilies hanging in profusion.

A salad and pastry supper was served in the sitting room. At 8 o'clock an entertainment was held in the church. Music was rendered by the Misses Wood of Sweden, Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Straus of New York. Susie Walker of Fryeburg was the reader. Her selections are always new and rendered in a very pleasing manner. It was a very successful evening socially and financially. Receipts of the evening after expenses were paid about $125.

Frank C. Palmer of Norway is at his grandfather's, N. Palmer's.

Rev. W. E. Warren preached at the Christian church, Sunday, Aug. 13.

Mr. D. Ford spent last Sunday with Mrs. Merchides and her brother H. A. Record.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hodsdon of Turner spent last Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Hodsdon.

Two of Mrs. Smith's daughters from Boston are visiting their mother and grandfather E. Lane. Other city friends and relatives arrived, Saturday.

Clara Merrill went to Auburn for an operation last week. Her physician informed her she could not live to see winter if she didn't have an operation soon.

Rev. Mr. Kelly was in this place last week visiting his old parishioners. Mrs. Kelly and daughter accompanied him. They were gladly received by their old friends.

Dr. Marshall of Portland is now in his home that he built for a summer resort in days too warm for comfort elsewhere. Dr. Marshall has a large number of his old associates for patrons.

All vegetables are growing fast and yielding a rich crop. Corn is looking finely, potatoes have grown remarkably fast and nothing has left the weeds behind. They grow night and day.

Miss Helen Pierce of Lewiston, is visiting at her uncle Frank Pierce and having an enjoyable visit with her uncle and aunt and three cousins, who all intend this shall be as fine a visit as she ever enjoyed.

WEST BETHEL.

Annual Lawn Party.

The annual lawn party given by the Chapel aid society will be held at Grover's birches, Tuesday, Aug. 22d, afternoon and evening. Proceeds to be used for the benefit of new church and all interested are invited to make this a day of pleasure and a profitable event for the purpose it is intended. Preparations are being made for a grand good program as in the past, with some new attractions. There will be for sale a lot of useful and fancy articles, also other things.

Supper will be served from 5 o'clock until all are fed to their satisfaction. Beans baked in the ground by G. W. Harden as usual, and pastry of all kinds cooked by the ladies of this vicinity. As to the good quality of their cooking it needs no mention here as it has been well advertised in past years.

F. E. Lary was at home over Sunday.

Sadie Seely is reported as getting better slowly.

A. J. Haskell has just put in a car load of corn.

PARIS HILL.

A Musical Treat.

What promises to be one of the greatest musical treats ever presented in Oxford county is the concert to be given in connection with the annual mid-summer fair of the ladies of the Baptist society. The program gives an idea of the unique style of the entertainment as giving National songs in eight languages chiefly by natives of the countries represented. All lovers of fine music should make special effort to be present.

A fine new stone has been set in Woodlawn cemetery at the graves of Cyrus Kneeland and wife. Where is the cemetery association that allows the bushes to grow in such wild masses over the yard and leaves the upper entrance to look like any old pasture fence? The neglect of our Woodlawn should nerve every good citizen to some loyal action.

David Lebroke arrived Tuesday evening with the body of G. Addison Snow, who was drowned in Lake Umbagog last Thursday. Prayers were held at the house and burial was immediately after. In company with Harry Marsden he was coming down the lake in a canoe, which was caught in a squall and upset, his companion swimming safely to shore. The body was recovered by exploding dynamite. He was a native of Nova Scotia, twenty-three years of age and leaves a sister, Mrs. Jennie Bethel, who lives here.

Herbert Pearson, who has been stopping at Fred Hazelton's for the past year, has gone away and is now working for Sam Lebroke. Mr. Hazelton does his chores alone although his foot that was cut the 28th of November is is not healed up yet. Some afraid it will have to be opened before it is well.

GREENWOOD.

The Deer-Calf.

Orville Ames has a calf, which is thought to be part deer. It has only two teats and its legs and tail resemble a deer. And when a person goes near, it will throw up its head in a manner much more becoming to a deer than a calf. A large sum of money would be necessary to buy this calf.

Mrs. Abbie Hayes is very sick.

Mrs. Lucy Curtis is on the sick list.

A number from this place went to Portland last Sunday.

Harvey Corbett went to Portland, Sunday, to visit relatives.

Charles Swift has returned from his visit to Cumberland Mills.

Funeral of Mrs. Gardner Rowe.

The funeral of Mrs. Deborah K. Rowe was held at her home Sunday afternoon.

There was a large number of relatives and friends present, also many members of the Grange. The services were conducted by Rev. C. A. Brooks in a very impressive and comforting manner, music by members of the Grange.

The flowers were many and beautiful consisting of:

Pillow—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rowe.
Bouquet Pinks and sweet peas—Bion Lane and wife.
Basket of flowers—Norway Grange.
Cut flowers—Mrs. Borneman, Edith Palmer, Mrs. Lovering.
Bouquet roses—Mr. and Mrs. John A. Roberts.
Bouquet roses and pinks—Frank Whitehouse.
Cut flowers—B. W. Mason and wife.
Bouquet pinks—Arthur Cummings and wife.
Bouquet pinks—Ethel and Alice Monroe.
Bouquet roses—Mr. and Mrs. Ira Harriman.
Pillow—A. W. Whitehouse and wife.
Cut flowers—Mr. and Mrs. George Horr, Mrs. E. C. Winslow. Mrs. Frank Bailey, Elsie Bradbury, Mr. and Mrs. James Shedd.
Sweet peas—Bion Pike and wife.
Pond lilies—Mrs. Calvin Richardson.

The following stanzas were set to music and sung at the funeral:—

Rest, sister, rest; life's cares are o'er,
And past are all sorrows and pain;
Though your loss here we now deplore,
Sometime we shall meet you again.

For years you were known by us all,
As one on whom we could depend,
To respond to your name when called
By master, lecturer or friend.

We shall miss your cordial greetings,
Your cheerful smile and kindly voice;
For no more in future meetings,
Can words of yours our hearts rejoice.

Sister, farewell, God has called you
To that bright home of his above,
Where kind angels waited for you
To share with them his boundless love.

The following poem was sent to Mrs. Rowe by a friend, and Mrs. Rowe requested that it be published after her death.

To One I Esteem and Love.

As the night is dark and silent,
And I lay awake and dream
My thoughts return to loved ones,
Whom I honor and esteem.

My thoughts they linger longest
On a lady noble and dear;
And a truer friend on this earth
I shall never find I fear.

Her hair is white like the driven snow,
Her eyes of Heaven's own blue,
Her figure is tall and bent,
But her heart is loving and true.

She has taught me true worth in living,
Not for one's self alone,
But with the thoughtfulness for others,
That we not one act or deed may moan.

Through her long life
Of joy, sadness, sorrow and pain,
Patiently she bears it all,
To no one does she ever complain.

I can never tell you
What such a life has given to me!
It has taught me of love in Heaven,
And of its power here to be.

And when I think of such a life,
I ask Our Father in Heaven
To help me to so live
That I such a character may be given.

We love such lives and hold them dear,
'Tis noble minds like these
That help us during this earthly life,
To guide our fragile barks with ease.

My greatest wish and true desire
Is to sometime be given
The glorious meeting
Of such as these in Heaven.

(To Mrs. J. G. Rowe from E. M. M., with love)

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Adopted by Evergreen Rebekah Lodge, No. 15 I. O. O. F., on the death of sister Mae Farrington, who died at Auburn, July 14, 1905.

WHEREAS, Death has entered the portals of Evergreen Rebekah Lodge, the second time within a few weeks and called another sister, one who has been absent from us. Many of us recall with pleasure the pleasant hours passed in her society and through these memories runs a vein of sadness and the places which once knew her will know her no more, therefore be it

RESOLVED, that in the death of Sister Mae Farrington, Evergreen Lodge has lost a constant and highly esteemed member, and true friend whose qualities of character, purity of life has endeared her to all within the Lodge.

RESOLVED, that we tenderly condole with the family and especially the mother of our deceased Sister in their hour of trial and affliction and devoutly commend them to Him who does not afflict willingly.

RESOLVED, that the heartfelt sympathy of the members of this Lodge be tendered the sorrowing mother and brother in this their deep affliction, and may the noble traits in her character be a silver lining to the cloud that now overshadows them.

RESOLVED, that these resolutions be placed on our records, a copy sent to the family of our deceased sister, and a copy sent to the Norway ADVERTISER for publication, and our charter draped in mourning thirty days.

Cummings' Storehouse Burned.

The sounding of an alarm of fire from box 28, at 12.35 Saturday morning, summoned the Fire department to one of the most obstinate fires that they have had to fight for years. The blaze was in the storehouse of C. B. Cummings & Sons in the freight yard east of the passenger station. When discovered the storehouse was completely afire underneath, and the flames spread to the entire building, making an intensely hot blaze. The water was turned on from three lines of hose and the flames prevented from spreading to adjoining storehouses, the absence of wind and the gravel roof of the building aiding in the control of the fire. The signal "under control" was sounded at 2 a. m., but owing to the nature of the stock, manufactured dowels with which the building was completely filled, the fire companies remained until ten o'clock in the forenoon. The stock was piled over and some water put on through the afternoon.

Except a small portion of the western end, the storehouse was completely destroyed. The stock of dowels ready for shipment was badly damaged. The value was about $10,000, and there was an insruance of $8,800.

B. W. Marston of the Yaggar neighborhood has sold his farm to Daniel Mills of Mason. Mr. Marston intends to move into the village.

The Kennebec Journal says:—They raise great marksmen up in Norway. Seven of the 15 men on the team to represent Maine at the Seagirt national shoot are from that town.

W. C. Cole is building an 18-foot addition to the Moffatt cottage beside the lake. New glass doors and new windows are being put in and the building is to be repainted.

Mrs. Olive Kimball will sell her household goods, horse, wagon, etc., at auction at the Horn Farm, Norway, Saturday, Aug. 19, at 1 o'clock, p. m., A. D Park, auctioneer.

Car No. 5 of the Norway and Paris Street Railway left the rails on upper Main Street on the 2. 15 trip from South Paris, Thursday afternoon, and when stopped was across the track and headed for C. B. Cummings & Sons office. The crew went to work and the car was put back on the rails at 4 o'clock.

A young woman struck Norway, Friday, on a begging expedition. According to her statement she was a cripple. The trouble seemed to be that one leg was shorter than the other as her shoe was built up with a sole of about two inches, and she walked with the aid of one crutch. She walked rapidly and seemed to have little or no trouble in moving about. The object she was getting money for was to learn typewriting. When asked how much it would cost she said she did not know but about $100 she thought. She did not know where she was to learn it for she had just started out to get the money. We saw her begging of one of our citizens, who is badly crippled and a good many times lamer than she apparently was. She dined at the Beal's Hotel.

Devoe Outwore Two Others.

Here's a 15-year yarn; you like yarns, don't you? It comes from Odell Hardware Co, Greensboro, N C.

Mr. R. G. Glenn's house in that town was painted Devoe about 15 years ago, and next, this year.

A house, next door, was painted about the same time with another paint, supposed to be good. This house was painted again about 5 years ago with still another paint, that professes to be extraodinary.

Glenn's house, before it was painted just now, was in as good condition as that one. Devoe 15 years; the other 5 years—guess that's about how to put it.

But this extraodinary paint is a bluff; Devoe is the paint.

Assets Small.

Amos W. Knight, proprietor of the White Oak Spring hotel in Poland, one of the finest summer hotels in New England, has gone into bankruptcy. His voluntary petition, filed in the District Court, Saturday, places his liabilities at $193,036. He has no assets—nothing except $15 worth of personal belongings. His creditors are distributed over Maine and Massachusetts principally. A few are in New York and the west. Most of them had some part in the building or furnishing of the big house.

There are two secured claims. One is that of George Bayes of Kennebunk and the other the Saco Savings bank, which holds a $100,000 mortgage on the hotel and has an account of $121,021 against the proprietor.

Mrs. Ethel Bushby, J. H. Sullivan, Jack Rose, E. C. Edes, Lucius Stone, W. S. Sargent, Noble Henderson, Maine Might Be One Vast Park.

The State of New Hampshire has started a movement to save shade trees along the highways and this is the simple and easy manner in which they do it. They first make a law, then they go along roads and put a round red tin label about three inches in diameter on which are the letters "N. H." These are "State trees" and if they are cut there is a fine. In this way in a few years, the roads throughout the State will be between rows of large, beautiful shade trees.

This would be a good example for Maine to follow, and the sooner it is put into operation, the sooner the entire State will have its roads more beautiful than its best well wisher ever imagined it could be.

It has been decided in New Hampshire that an evergreen tree like pines, spruce, hemlock, firs, etc., is not a shade tree, and this is a good idea, for the foliage of these trees in the winter might be a bad thing with our deep snows in this climate.

The trees they select shed their foliage in the fall, and after being trimmed up do not obstruct the view in the winter, nor interfere in any way with the snow. We all know how pleasant it is to ride along a shady road in the summer. It is a blessing to both man and beast.

Everyone is interested in this subject and let the people in Oxford county start in and work for shade trees at regular intervals throughout our good old State of Maine, "The summer playground of the United States."

We would be pleased to print the opinion of our readers on this subject of systematically preserving and planting shade trees along our highways.

The Month of Reunions.

August is preeminently the month of reunions. In our changing civilization it is supplanting Thanksgiving as a time for gathering at the old home. The factory hand, the clerk, and all the other city workers have their vacations in the summer, and it is during their vacations that they visit the old farm, the ancient schoolhouse, the orchard, the brook and the swimming hole.

It is different from the days when city people were few, and work on the farm kept people at home in the summer. Winter was then the holiday season, and the reunions clustered about Thanksgiving day in the last week of November or first week of December.

Old home week is appropriately placed in August, then, and has been established as beginning with the second Sunday. It has little in the way of special ceremonials, this year. Somehow, the vistors need rest, and the ceremonies pass out of existence. The spirit of old home week is unchanged. The observance is becoming home joy instead of public celebrations.

Oxford county seems to be the particular headquarters of the family reunions in Maine, and many "cousin parties" etc., are held in its towns. But the family reunions are becoming more numerous all over the State.

The Civil War regiments and the schools hold their gatherings at this time of year and the Chautauqua assemblies and campmeetings draw their thousands during August.

Blessed is August; it may be hot, but it is "Old Home month."

Made a Mistake.

Fifty-one gallons of liquor were seized at Dixfield the past week.

Fifty-one prominent citizens of Dixfield received letters from a distilling company of Cincinnati, O., informing them that one gallon of pure whiskey had been sent C. O. D. to their address and that they could have the same by calling at the express office and laying down $3 50 for it.

The letters also stated that in the cases containing the gallon of whiskey were a pipe and tobacco and some whiskey glasses as a present from the firm and an assurance of their good will. The whole kit of fifty-one gallons of the distilling company's best is now reposing safely in the hands of the authorities, thanks to the efforts of Deputy Sheriff George W. Dockham and the recipients of the letters.

If the distilling company had wanted to send fifty one gallons of liquor to Dixfield, and had wanted to get their pay for it, they should have picked out a different class of men to whom to have sent it, for the gentlemen whom they did favor were almost to a letter total abstainers, and didn't want the rum and wouldn't have it anyway.

The letters stating that by presenting $3.50 at the express office, they could get their gallon of liquor, were immediately put into the hands of the sheriff and like a good officer, he presented a search and seizure warrant instead of the $3.50 at the depot and found the goods. Immediately, Sheriff McIntire was notified and he at once notified County Attorney Barnes.

Emily Fuller Perry.

Emily Fuller Berry, more familiarly known as Aunt Emily, who recently passed to her eternal home, was one of Denmark's oldest and best known residents. About sixty years of her life was passed there—years marked by ceaseless work and untiring energy.

She was born in Hampton, Conn., Jan. 15, 1814, and was a direct descendent of John Fuller, who came to America from England in 1634.

She married Isaac Berry of Denmark, and soon after her marriage left her old home for the home of her husband where she spent the remainder of her long and busy life, only once returning for a short visit to Connecticut.

Eight children came to the Berry homestead, four of whom together with the father, died many years ago. The remaining four, Mrs. James Head, Jared Wallace and Isaac Berry live in Denmark and her home has been with Isaac since the death of her husband.

A woman of sterling qualities, and a friend to all, she will be sadly missed by both young and old.

The earnings of the Grand Trunk Ry. system for the fourth week of July, 1905 were $982,178; for the corresponding week of 1904 they were $946,810; increase for 1905, $35,368.

The Grand Trunk has closed its quarry at Bryant's Pond, and the stone cutters have returned to Canada. This is thought to indicate that no new stations will be built on this division this year.

Live in the Air.

"Live in the open air as much as you can," said a medical man who tries to make his patients beautiful as well as healthy. "Live in it all the time, if possible; or if you can not do that, live in it as much as you can. You can't get too much of the outdoor air.

"What will the outdoor do for you? Everything in the world. It will clear the complexion, give you an appetite, strengthen your lungs, make your liver more active and wake you up generally. It may make you feel a little hazy because you are not accustomed to it, but it will do you good.

"What do I do for my sick patients? I give them outdoor air. There is nothing in the world that will cure them as thoroughly and as quickly. A good drive for the really sick and a good walk for the half sick is the best specific I know. Air will cure where nothing else will.

"The old fashioned way of taking air was all wrong. The patient took a long walk, then went to bed in a stuffy bedroom for a nap. The result was that she woke up tired with a poor skin and a lack of appetite. The fresh air cure now is more sweeping. You take a long walk in the open air. Then you come home tired and want to rest. You lie down in a hammock and take a nap in the open, or you stretch yourself on the grass under a big tree or you dose off in a shady corner of the piazza. You positively must not come indoors except when you are compelled to do so. This doesn't mean a cold; it means a good time and plenty of health.

"Living in the open air isn't a fad any more. It is a necessity. It is one of those things that grow on you; if you begin it, you can't stop it. The Japanese girl lives in the open air. Her windows are made of paper and they slide to the floor. She slides them back, and she is on the piazza. She pushes them all the way back and she is out of doors. Her room is turned into a garden early in the morning. By the time she is dressed she is really in the open air. She is never caged up even in her sleep, for her paper windows are porous. As a result she keeps her complexion and is healthy.

"If you want to live in the open begin by making a study of it. Don't get in a draught, but plan how many and what things you can do out of doors.

"Books should always be read in the open. The air is good for the brain, and the breeze is good for the eyes. Moreover you don't look at a book half as steadily when you read under a tree as when you read in the house. The temptation is to look up and around. You let your gaze wander and you rest your mind and your eyes.

"Reading in the open is good on another account. It stimulates the imagination. The imagination is never stimulated upon a moving train, nor in a close, half-darkened, partly ventilated room. But get out in an easy chair under the trees, and he e your mind will work. You enjoy your book twice as much. Many readers will not read unless they can read in the open under a tree, or in a shady corner of the piazza.

"Eating in the open air is the finest thing in the world. It isn't because of the appetite you get—though this is something not to be despised—and it isn't because of the scents nor because of the pleasant atmosphere. It is because of the actual effect of the air upon the lungs. "You eat air and you breathe it. Eating in a close apartment is a terrible strain on upon the lungs. The muscles of the face are working and the lungs are doing their best to supply enough air. At the same time one is conversing. This means hard work all along the line. It is a drain upon the constutition.

And this is why so many are so deadly tired after dinner. If you eat in the open air, you will not have indigestion. You can cook a meal of salt pork and soda biscuit in the open air and eat it without injury. You can sit upon the piazza in the summer time and eat your dinner—no matter what it may be—and feel well afterward. It is all because you are getting deep breaths of good fresh air while you eat.

"Sleeping in the open is the best thing of all. People are generally afraid of it. But those who doubt should try it once.

"Sewing in the open air is a good thing for those who must sew.

"A hermitage trip is a good thing. You simply turn hermit. Having selected your spot you pitch a tent—for you have taken a tent with you—and here you begin to live. If you are in the true spirit of a hermitage, you camp near a stream; you look around for flying game; you see what can be caught and trapped; and you try to subsist upon the fruits of your traps, your gun, your line and your fingers Bushes are picked; trees are threshed; and every effort is made to live by what you can catch and find.

"Women who do not feel brave enough for this sort of thing can take the tent life in some out-of-the way place near a little hotel. The tent is pitched in the open and here she eats and sleeps. The hotel is to act as a refuge in case of storm, or if provisions give out and loneliness sets in."

Here are some rules for the girl who is going to try the outdoor-air cure.

Don't expect delicacies to eat. Let hunger be the best sauce.

Don't try to keep dressed up; let your clothing be loose and easy.

Don't worry about anything; resolve that this shall be a time of no worry.

Don't plan and don't think.

Don't eat between meals and don't worry about your peck of dirt. You will get it during the trip.

Don't be afraid of getting sunburned; resolve to take a course of cucumber and lemon juice immediately afterward; but for the present let the sun do its work.

Don't sit around bareheaded; you are not used to it; and don't let the vivid sun play upon your eyes; it will make your head ache.

Don't think you can get fresh air by merely looking at the grass and the trees; you must breathe deeply or you will not get half the air you ought to have.

Learn to eat raw greens and to drink milk, but don't forget to put a pinch of salt in both. Salt will help them digest.

Take a book along as a sedative; books are very soothing.

Try not to think of your future or of your past; don't worry about the money market. Let your mind be tranquil. Imagine you are out at open sea. You can't get home if you want to. While you are tenting or otherwise taking the fresh-air cure, why not take a course in philosophy. Fresh air and philosophy go well together.

Study repose; study the art of keeping your hands still; study how to sit still and how to stand still; and don't forget that the fresh air, after all, is only half the cure. The other half is yourself. You must be willing to be cured.

THE TURN OF LIFE

A Time When Women Are Susceptible to Many Dread Diseases—Intelligent Women Prepare for It. Two Relate their Experience.

The "change of life" is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

Every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.

When her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy, or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active—and with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

These symptoms are all just so many calls from nature for help. The nerves are crying out for assistance and the cry should be heeded in time.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried thousands of women safely through this crisis.

For special advice regarding this important period women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and it will be furnished absolutely free of charge.

Read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound did for Mrs. Hyland and Mrs. Hinkle:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I had been suffering with falling of the womb for years and was passing through the Change of Life. My womb was badly swollen; my stomach was sore; I had dizzy spells, sick headaches, and was very nervous.

"I wrote you for advice and commenced treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as you directed, and I am happy to say that all those distressing symptoms left me and I have passed safely through the Change of Life, a well woman. I am recommending your medicine to all my friends."—Mrs. Annie E. G. Hyland, Chestertown, Md.

Another Woman's Case.

"During change of life words cannot express what I suffered. My physician said I had a cancerous condition of the womb. One day I read some of the testimonials of women who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I decided to try it and to write you for advice. Your medicine made me a well woman, and all my bad symptoms soon disappeared.

"I advise every woman at this period of life to take your medicine and write you for advice."—Mrs. Lizzie Hinkle, Salem, Ind.

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Hyland and Mrs. Hinkle it will do for any woman at this time of life.

It has conquered pain, restored health, and prolonged life in cases that utterly baffled physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

Take the fresh air cure as often as you can. It should be a sort of progressive cure. That is the best way to take it; look for your chances and take the cure.

Souvenir Postals.

Several in Norway are making collections of souvenir postals, and more are buying them and sending them to friends. The neat albums for the postals make the collection very attractive.

The dealers report the sales increasing and new cards are constantly appearing.

The business has grown to such proportions and the cards have assumed such variety of form, size and material, that they are causing a great deal of bother to the postoffices.

A law was enacted by Congress a few years ago which provided that cards of the same size and weight as the ordinary postal cards might be sent through the mails as ordinary postal cards providing a one cent stamp is affixed.

Many of the printed cards sold as souvenir postal cards meet there requirements and can be written upon and sent through the mails with a one cent stamp affixed. The trouble is however, that not all or indeed most of the souvenir cards do meet the government requirements. Many of them are much bigger than ordinary cards and they are made of leather and wood and almost everything else.

All of these cards are mailable as merchandise at the rate of one cent an ounce but if anything is written upon them then they require letter postage which is two cents an ounce.

The leather cards, which are so popular this season, are of about the same size as the ordinary cards and would be mailable if written upon, if it were not for the fact that they are much thicker than the ordinary postal cards. This bars them from the mails except as merchandise and if written upon letter postage must be paid.

The wooden souvenirs are generally much larger and heavier than ordinary postal cards and generally weigh more than an ounce. Upon these if there is any writing four cents in stamps must be affixed.

These few facts cover the government regulations and if everybody was familiar with them and obeyed them they would save themselves and the post-office people much trouble, and more of the souvenirs would reach their destination. But to many people all souvenirs "look alike" and they affix one-cent stamps to big and little, write their messages on the back and dump them into the letter boxes. Naturally the great majority of them do not reach destinations, and then there is sorrow and disappointment.

Mothers lose their dread for "that terrible second summer" when they have Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house. Nature's specific for summer complaints of every sort. 31-45

Grandma Mott's Advice to Travelers.

"You should not travel about the country this warm weather without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Kate Mott, of Fairfield, Iowa, or "Grandma Mott" as she is familiarly known. "One or two doses of this remedy will always cure the worst case of summer complaint. We keep it always at hand, in fact, we could not keep house without it." The Old Folks' Party.

"Have you thought," said Obadiah Edom as with his guid-wife Arimanthy, the twain sat one evening beside the glowing grate in the pleasant and cozy sitting room at Primrose Farm, the country home of the Edoms, "Do you know, it is almost time again we that had the old folks' merry-making only a year ago should be thinking about it again?"

"I declare, husband, so it is," exclaimed Arimnthy, "and this year it won't do to let it go by unobserved, for the old folks' merry-making has become such a feature in the years that have flown that we are by no means the only ones who look forwards to it with keen relish and delight."

Many have dropped away who have met with us and enjoyed our hospitality in other days; gone home, dear wife, out into the great unknown to enjoy the higher life in the city not built with hands, whose maker and finisher, like the author and finisher of our faith, is God.

"Others are living, and, with us still, and these no doubt will, many of them, again be glad to partake of our home cheer and the largess of our hearts as of old."

"Ole uncle Bial Drake an' a'nt Wyman an' Prudence Somersworth, the Spinster and Deekin Trott an' his guid-wife Mary have all stepped over the line during the year that has just gone, just a little way in advance of us, so they will not meet with us this year. In the Father's house in glory, they have no doubt long ere this, partaken together of the Father's rich bounty for all them that love him. While they dwelt with us upon earth we enjoyed their companionship, and well we may say and truly feel today, that our own lowly lives have been benefited, made better because of them."

"Do you think, do you believe, Obadiah," asked the guid-wife, "they are all at home to-night? 'The Book says "They sleep till the resurrection morn."

"Ay," softly replied Obed, "but these words of the Master, like sunbeams over life's shadows, break in and at once turn our night into day, our doubt into certainty, for "Lo, have I not told you I am the resurrection and the life?" Then again to-day, not some far off time away down the dim vista of inrolling years, 'this day thou shalt be with me in Paradise.'"

"Well, though we may not understand but little, I believe," said Arimnthy, "He doeth all things well, and therewith should we be content;"

Thus amid quiet and bloom and happiness the days soon sped away and brought the day of the old folks' party at Primrose Farm, the home of the Edom family. Of the immediate memof the Edom household, first there was, or stood, old, old Obadiah, as the most senior member of the family was termed by the simple, kind-hearted yeomanry dwelling around and near them, then came Arimnthy, his wife, both well along into the nineties; close after these, Obadiah senior and his guid-wife Merildy, who already, some years agone, had crossed the half century mark, then came young Obadiah with his wife, Priscilla, whom the neighbors all called Cilly, for short, a spinster, called aunt Miss Hitty, sister to Obadiah senior, and two little boys, children of Obadiah junior and his young wife Priscilla, composed the Edom household.

It is said, I know not how justly, that no one house can hold two women and at the same time have the white winged Dove of Peace flying out and in for any length of time at its windows, but it wasn't so in this case, for long, long years the members of the Edom housestead had dwelt together in love and unity.

'Twas a fine, old, rambling mansion of colonial days, settiig well back from the travelled thoroughfare beneath huge, over-arching elms, whose welcome shade formed delightful retreats to the members of the family and all comers and goers tarrying awhile at the old homestead.

Obadiah and his consort, Merildy, had already sent round their invitations, and expected, as many had accepted and sent them word to that effect, a goodly company would be present to enjoy tneir hospitality as in former days.

Everything about the old place was spick, span clean, both indoors and out. It would have made your mouth water but just to have cast a glance into Merildy's cheese room and breathed in that highly appetizing and delicate aroma emanating from new home-made cheese. There wa'n't a better cheese maker for miles around, so folks said, than Rildy Edom. And her neat, clean and tasty dairy showed its mistress meant to keep up with her reputation.

So the day came, and soon the guests began to arrive. I wonder just how many think they know all about an old folks' party; few, I fancy for many have had no chance to go. Others cared not to go when old and when young much preferred to go and put in an hour somewhere else than at an old folks' party,

Methinks I hear someone exclaim, "Oh, they're dull affairs, dull places where there isn't much to be seen or heard; all there is there is a group or two of pale looking, 'wishy-washy individuals that have long since gone out of date, like a last year's calendar, and no one now takes any interest in them, whatever." Young man, some of the most beautiful faces I ever saw in all my life were old faces. Some of the most glossy and fairest tresses I ever saw were silvered o'er, with weight of years upon them. Some of the youngest, brightest hearts and lives I've ever found and known I've seen and found in oldest frames.

But as fine and clean as Rildy's dairy room looked it was not to be compared to her pantry, just one sniff of which from the crack of that pantry door would make one feel hungry for a week. An' such cakes an' pies as Rildy could make! 'Twan't no wonder, the neighbors all said, them two young ones o' Cillys looked as if they would roll one way as quick as the other.

It is said "All ways lead to Rome." Certain it was, this one, bright particular June afternoon many found or hatched up ways they had never thought of before to carry out the fond object of their hearts and visit the Edoms. Ole Aunt Nancy Lee an' Rushany Shelden came over early in the morning from Poverty Corner. Reuben an' Silas Toothaker started to come acrost they said but lost their bearin's an' fell into a bog. Silas thought he would keep the road henceforth as he found it wasn't quite so easy to pick his feet out of a mud hole as it was when he was a boy. He ain't only 92 an' felt a leetle disappointed he didn't stand the journey better.

Trypheny, Sitoyenna and Florindy, the three Burnett sisters were there, all great friends of Miss Hetty. Longlegged Sam Skillins affirmed they made the best show in the flesh of any present, unitedly they tip the beam a little beyond the six hundred pound mark. Well, what did they, let me tell, after all were assembled. The great company sat down, and all fell to holding their hands and twirling their thumbs, meanwhile many cast sly, furtive glances at their neighbors. The greenest ones stared the pictures out of countenance that hung on the walls and looked at the ceiling very hard and did several other things very embarrassing to themselves and also to other people around them.

Well, then hear, the great majority did no such thing. They had come and were there they realized to help make others happy. Just what God, brother, put you and me into the world for, and at the same time catch at a few sunbeams and capture them ourselves for ourselves, as here we pass along. The saintly looking old ladies took out their knitting and sitting back in alcoves and in softened lights that crept in and irridated the spacious rooms of the old mansions, soon fell to talking with this friend or that, whom they had not seen and met indeed for many a long day.

Do you think old people don't take any comfort, don't have any good times? If any one entertains any such an idea as that, I wish they had been able to glance in upon the scene in that house and to have noted the happy faces of the people assembled there; and heard the stories they told of ye olden time, or the days when they were young; listened to the old-time songs they sung, such as Hull's Victory, Silk Merchants' Daughter, Taxation of North America, etc, etc.; saw the smiles irradiating their faces as the old ladies knit and the old gentlemen smoked away placidly and contentedly out of old-fashioned T. D.'s black with age but still doing their owners excellent service.

Some tell us old people don't know anything. I wish any one could have heard, who is prone to think that way, a few of the stories so replete with interest the old folks had ready at hand, not ready made as some are, to repeat again of a time and day when customs and manners and society were all so different from what it is at the present time. Small wonder some of them were to be seen there shaking their wise old heads and saying one to another, "Behold a silly, giggling age, a fast living people. These shall have an early and untimely end."

I wish I might stop and call up here to your mind a few minor details, but these must pass, step aside for things of greater moment.

About four in the afternoon somebody went and opened the pantry door, then somebody else began laying the snowy linen on the long tables, tables mind you made especially for this occasion out of freshly sawed boards in which the healthful, fragrant odor of the pine still lingered.

Then and there was brought forth the snowy light bread, the pies and cakes, a little later on the spare-rib, the turkey and the goose, then the vegetables in great white deep hollow tureens, accompanied by home-made cranberry and cider apple sauce to add to the vegetables a more appetising taste, and milk and meat and vegetables and fruit all fresh and sweet, so unlike, so different from what one gets in town. This is only a few of the many dishes. I cannot stop to tell you all but there were many more.

The supper ready all sat down and when 'twas over Parson Brownlow rose and said, "Since coming here to-day dear friends, two of our most loved and worthy parishoners have requested that we perform for them the marriage rites of our church. And as my 'guid mon' Edom and his wife have gladly given free use of their spacious parlor for this most pleasant feature of the day and as the bride and groom are quite old enough to know their own minds in regard to such a matter, Do you Miss Hetty Edom and you Mr. Reuben Toothaker take your places."

So Reuben and Hetty married were, and in the same room, too, where 75 years from that very day, Hetty Edom, the new made bride had first seen the light of morn.

And so the old folks' party ended in a marriage and each and every one who had been there as a guest went home at nightfall well satisfied with himself, with his God and with his neighbor man.

DANA HARLOWE.

In the Daily Grind.

The strife to maintain a position of supposed dignity may be wearing us out. Really nobody cares whether we keep three maids or none at all, whether we wear satin or homespun, whether we live in a brownstone front or a one-story cottage or a wee bit of a flat on an obscure street. Don't let us be driven for such silly causes as mere show and display.

Vanity of vanities, saith the preacher about this. When "the world is too much with us late and soon," and "getting and spending, we lay waste our powers," it is a good plan to go somewhere for awhile near to nature's heart. The old home up country, the little brook where we may fish for trout, the apple tree which bears seek-no-furthers, the sunny south chamber in a farmhouse where an old friend will take us in, may prove our blessed rest cures.

If we cannot go from home let us be quiet here; silent when we are disposed to the volubility of excitement, patient when people are trying, forgiving even to ourselves when our inner sight is clearest. For even to the wind-blown coast comes days of blue sky and the golden light and the softly caressing waves; and such days may come to you and to me, dear troubled hearts, if we will let them, says Ladies Home Journal.

One who loves music will often be soothed and rested by listening to an orchestra or even to the performance of the home daughter who does not try to be scientific or ultra-classical, but just sits at the piano in the twilight runs her fingers over the keys, and plays tender little melodies which steal the trouble from the heart and bring back sweet memories of youth and freedom from care. An occasional play is a balm to the driven person who in the mimic world, temporarily forgets the vexations of the actual.

Each for herself must find her remedy but none of us must overlook the everlasting fact that whatever happens the unseen things are the real things, and the kingdom of Heaven is within us.

Only a month more of vacation for teachers and pupils, but most people are glad to get two weeks.

The Bible in School.

It is not a compulsory school law, but "custom has become a law" by privilege for most teachers to have some Bible exercise every morning. A teacher who succeeds with school studies generally has the tact to make a five-minutes Bible lesson interesting and instructive. If the teacher reads indifferently a few verses a Psalm, Romans, or Hebrews, it is dull to the pupils and they soon become glad when that formal way is over every morning. Carefully selected stories miracles, or parables may be made very helpful in gaining an education. A class was reading Evangeline at school the past spring term and one of the scholars asked the meaning of "Hung their ladder of ropes like the ladder of Jacob." The teacher admitted that she didn't know.

Charles A. Dana, the famous editor of the New York Sun, advised all young people to study the literature, style, and stories of the Bible. Daniel Webster was called the Bibical concordance of the U. S. Senate, because he used logical extract from the Bible to give weight to his great speeches.

Place the lesson upon the board during the day for the next morning. If the school is not accustomed to your plan, name the book, chapter, and verse, but soon, if interested, they will prefer to find the answers, if you only name the book. Have them copy these lessons in a little note book of their own. Most of your pupils will find the answers at home and next morning they will be elated to tell you. Here are a few examples of hundreds.

Lesson 1.

1. Find the word school. Acts 19,—.
 a. How many times found in the Bible?

Lesson 2.

1. Where is the Lord's Prayer found? Matt.—.—.
 a. How many words in it?
 b. Just as many as what?
 b. As books in the Bible.

Lesson3.

1. What about the sparrows? Matt. 10, 29.
2. What about the hairs of your head? Matt. 10, 30.

Lesson 4.

1. The Liberty Bell.
 a. Where is it now?
 b. On what particular occasion was it rung?
 c. What inscription upon it? Lev. 25, 10.

Lesson 5.

1. Two persons tell a lie. Acts 5, —.
 a. What about?
 b. Their names.

Lesson 6.

1. Noah's Ark. Gen. 7, —.
 a. How many persons went into it?
 b. Who were they?

Lesson 7.

1. Where was the first telegraph?
1. In 1846 from Washington to Baltimore.
 a. What was the first message sent? Numbers 23, 23.

Lesson 8.

1. What about a good name? Proverbs 22—.
 a. Who wrote the book of Proverbs?

Lesson 9.

1. Chapters and verses.
 a. Longest chapter? Ps. 119.
 b. Longest verse? Esther 8,—.
 c. Shortest chapter? Ps. 117.
 d. Shortest verse? John 11, —.

Lesson 10.

1. Town clerk. Acts 19,—.
 a. Find it.
 b. Who is town clerk in your town or city?
 c. Name one of his duties.

Children's Corner.

Lovell, Me., Aug. 3, 1905.

DEAR EDITOR:—As I have not written to the ADVERTISER for a long time I thought I would. My uncle Salmon Smith and aunt Bessie from Conway visited at his brother's, James Smith of Stow. My uncle Marshall Smith and aunt Net are working for his brother, Will Smith of Stow. My sister Georgia isn't very well this summer. My brother Millard Smith went over to Norway to have his teeth pulled out. I weighed 140 pounds this spring. Hoping to see this in print, I remain, good bye,

GRACIE E. SMITH.

Lovell, Me., August 3, 1905.

DEAR EDITOR:—As I see my letter in print I thought I would try my luck again. We have been having quite a nice rain within a few days. Papa went a peddling the other day and when he came home the water had risen so that he didn't dare to undertake to go through. He turned around and went down around the city. The loggers that worked in the woods logging was very glad to get some rain so they could get the logs down the river that has laid there for quite awhile. If I see this in print I will try my luck again. I remain as yours,

ANNA I. SMITH.

In Hot Weather Remember Your Horse.

Don't forget that your horse will repay you for his cost if you treat him right.

Don't stand him in the sun, when by moving him across the street or around the corner you can find shade.

Don't put the same load on him when the thermometer is at 90 that you do when it is just above the freezing point.

Don't fail to give him water at short intervals.

Don't fail to bathe his head with cold water.

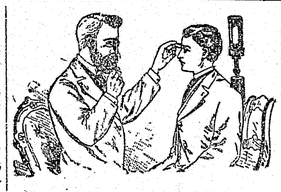

Don't give the horse whiskey unless advised by the veterinary surgeon, and don't take any yourself. Nine-tenths of the abuse of animals are directly traceable to its use.

Don't fail, if it shows signs of exhaustion, to give the animal a half hour's rest.

Don't fail in extreme cases to apply ice to the head and ice-water to the body so as to reduce the temperature.

Don't swear at him. He is a sentient being and can feel either the lash, whip or your tongue.

If it were literally true that the king can do no wrong we surmise it would be hard work getting anybody to accept the job of king.

The Oxford County Agricultural Society will hold its 63d Annual Meeting on its Grounds between South Paris and Norway, September 19, 20 and 21.

At a meeting last Saturday the Trustees completed all preliminary arrangements for the Fair. There has been and will be made many improvements on the grounds. A new fence has been built near the Judge's stand and everything looks favorable for one of the best Fairs ever held. The Baby Show is to be a marked success this year. There will be a raised platform for this feature in the ell of the main building.

Special trains have been secured by the Society going east and west over G. T. R.R., connecting with Rumford Falls, on Sept. 20 and 21.

A bum going into a house when the man was out, and declining to leave, the woman of the house grabbed a broom, charged on the brute and drove him out.

We would suggest to the Sturgis commission that they come to Buckfield and appoint a woman on the force since from a woman has come all the recent demonstrations.

No, the young men of Buckfield can't be beaten for courtesy. They allow no women, strangers, to get lost on our streets after the shades have fallen. Married or single, it's all the samme to Melican man.

Mr. and Mrs. David L. Welsh of New York were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Tilton on the 9th inst. Mrs. Welsh was Rossie O. Tilton, daughter of the late Salathiel Tilton, former residents of this town.

It is more than amusing to see how much more frightened some men will be at an automobile than their horses are, and seem disappointed that their horses take it cooly. The autos of Pierce, Long and C. H. Prince are working wonders on the horses here, by careful driving.

STOW.

Louise Chandler is the guest of Mrs. A. C. Andrews.
